

Your Activity

What are digital skills, and why are they so important?

Now that you've found out about digital skills, it's time to check your understanding and put your knowledge to the test.

It's time to get drawing!

QT has been very busy recently. He's been practising his digital skills.

Your task is to read each QT activity carefully and draw the digital skill that you think QT is learning and practising using the symbols →.

Use a computer, tablet or mobile phone.

Find and use information on the Internet.

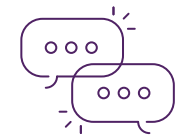

Understand how to be safe online.

Communicate using email, messaging and social media.

Buy things or apply for a job online.

Keep in touch with family and friends.

Increase my chances of getting and keeping a job.

Open up learning, training and job chances.

Activity 1

QT has spent his morning searching online for things to do in his town over the summer holidays.

Activity 2

QT has been using his tablet to practise his maths skills on a new app.

Activity 3

QT has been using his mobile phone to text his cousins and make plans for their summer holiday.

Activity 4

QT and his parents are looking online for a present for his friend. They have been searching on Google and Amazon and have bought the perfect gift.

Over to you!

You're doing brilliantly, well done!

Now that you have learned even more about digital skills, it's time to think about your own skills.

Thinking back to everything you have learned, finish the following sentences...

Digital skills are important for me because...

The digital skill that I'm already confident with is...

The digital skills that I need to practise more is...
